From Graham's Magazine for Feb. The Moon. -By J. R. Lowell. My soul was like the sea Before the moon was made: Moaning in vague immensity, Of its own strength afraid, Unrestful and unstaid. Through every rift it formed in vain About its earthly prison, Seeking some unknown thing in pain, And sinking restless back again, For yet no moon had irisen. Its only voice a vast, dumb moan Of utterless anguish speaking, It lay unhopefully alone, And lived but in an aimless seeking.

Of unrest to o'erloading, A voice of something beautiful Whispered a dim foreboding-And yet so soft, so sweet, so low, It had not more of joy than wo; And, as the sea doth oft lie still, Making its waters meet, As if by an unconscious will For the moon's silver feet, Like some serene, unwinking eye That waits a certain destiny, So lay my soul within mine eyes When thou its sovereign moon didst rise:

So was my soul: but when 't was full

And now, howe'er its waves above May toss and seem uneaseful, One strong, eternal law of love, With gaidance sure and peaceful, As celm and natural as breath Moves its great deeps through Life and Death.

Chicago-Its Prosperity, Business, &c. Correspondence of The Tribune. Chicago, Dec. 24, 1842.

Our town continues to flourish, notwithstanding the general derangement and depression in the business of the country. During the past summer DISOWNED.

DEVERBAUX.

PAUL CLIFFORD. and fall about eighty houses and stores have been erected-some of the stores being large and substantial brick buildings. Within the last week a sale has been made of a lot of ground 80 feet front by 180 feet deep, in the business portion of the town, for $12,500 in good currency; one half being paid down immediately (principally in specie) and the balance payable in sums of $1250, semiannually, until the whole is paid. Previous to the sale this ground was bringing a rent of $1000 per annum, which, by the terms of the lease, was to be increased two years hence to $1200 and to continue at that rate for five years.

This is the only large transaction which has been made in real estate for six months, and is considered by good judges to be just about a fair price and nothing more, so that you may regard it as a correct index of the present value of real estate in the business portion of this town.

A very large quantity of wheat has been brought in from the back country since the last harvest. From the 20th of July to the middle of October, the average amount received daily was about 10,000 bushels; the highest amount received on any one day having been 18,500 bushels. A large proportion of it has been of a superior quality, weighing from two to three pounds a bushel more than the standard weight.

The fall trade has been brisk in consequence of the large receipts of all kinds of produce from the country. On some days, there were about five hundred teams in town, all at one time, drawn by every species of domestic animal that can be used for the purposes of draught-horses, oxen and mules, with all their intermediate breeds-and every variety of carriage that has been invented since the Revival of Letters. To give you some idea of the briskness of trade during the period in question, I would inform you that $,000 barrels of salt were sold by retail in the space of six weeks, succeeding the 20th of July. The principal articles of Hoosier trade are Salt and Coffee, to which I may add Tar. Let them but get enough of these and they are happy.

Within the last few months our people have been soized with a mania for the lard oil business, which promises to become a capital thing for this country. Some half dozen manufactories for the conversion of lard into oil, have been put into operation, and this new avenue of enterprise and industry bids fair to be the means of lighting up our homes almost as brilliantly as the gas, and spirits, and sperm of the Atlantic cities. Prairie whales, alias porkers, are now in active demand, and large numbers of them are brought in daily-D. S. L. say from four to five hundred.

THE RECENT EARTHQUAKE .- The Cincinnat Chronicle says that sufficient information has been received respecting the late Earthquake to permit some general inferences to be drawn, viz: 1. It appears that it was felt from the western slope of the Atleghanies to the lower Mississippi.

and will probably be heard from farther. 2. It was felt more slightly toward the East, and more violently towards the Southwest. At Zanesville, for example, it was felt, as represented, less than at Cincinnati. At Nashville, it was quite a severe shock, and in that region was strong enough to throw plates from the shelves. At Mills Point, it is represented as throwing down chimneys. At New-Madrid, it is said the ground sunk

3. In this respect it was similar to the earthquake of 1811-12, which, on the 7th of February, 1813, threw down chimneys at Cincinnati, and opened the earth, and overflowed the waters of the Mississippi at New-Madrid.

4. As observed here by Dr. Ray, the current of the movement of the earthquake was from the Southwest to the Northeast. 5. This fact, and that of its greater force in the Southwest, indicates that its moving power was in the Southwest, near the lower part of the Mississippi River, unless, indeed, it should appear from further intelligence that there had been volcanic action of sufficient strength to produce it in stil more distant regions.

6. The fact that this trembling of the earth is felt over such an extensive region, and that its se verest effects are felt so far distant, is pretty good evidence that the moving power is scated deep in the earth, and is not any superficial volcanic in-

Whether the above inferences are just or not, they are worthy the investigation of inquiring minds. With respect to the valley of the Ohio, it has not probably ever been the seat of volcanic action, nor do these tremblings of the earth give any reason to suppose it will be. For the power which produces them is evidently remote, so far as regards terrestrial causes.

Er Orlando Fish, Fashionable Hatter, 187 Broad way, would inform the gentlemen of New York that his Fall and Winter style of Hats is now ready for their inspection and critical judgement. Claiming the distinction of having been the first to project and abide by a strictly ANERICAN style of Hats, instead of servilely copying the Fashions of Europe, which are often unsuited to our cil. mate and manners, he rejoices to perceive that others have seen fit to follow his lead, and that now the following of Kuropean Fashions in Hats is almost entirely abandoned by the leading manufacturers. He offers a Winter style of Gentlemen's Nutria Hats at $5 50, and warrants them equal in material, finish, fashion and durability to any Hat sold as low as $4 in the city. But he wishes it distinctly understood that his best Hats are not sold at this price, but at $4 50. These he recommends as equal to any hat sold in New-York at $5 or under, and challenges for them a comparison with any other. Gentlemen visiting our city are respectfully invited to call and examine his new stock of Winter bats and Judge of their quality. He is confident that, whether the paggest or the best Hat is desired, the inquirer will here be satisfied.
